Highlights from the management commentary

- The bank aims to achieve growth above the system level going forward and has already identified and addressed the root causes behind the slower deposit growth.
- The sequential contraction in NIMs has been narrowing, with stabilization expected from 3Q onwards and an improving trend likely from 4Q.
- PSLC sales are expected to resume by 4QFY26 or early FY27, at a similar quantum as in FY25.

Valuation and view

UNBK reported an earnings beat, led by healthy other income, lower tax rate, and lower provisions. However, business growth remained tepid, with muted QoQ trends in both advances and deposits, while CASA growth stood flat. NIMs were broadly in line with our expectations, as management has recently prioritized margins over growth, leading to a reduction in bulk deposits during 1HFY26. With business growth being sub-par for the past two quarters, the bank aims to revive momentum. Asset quality ratios continue to improve, led by controlled slippages and in-line provisions. We increase our earnings estimate slightly by 3%/ 2.5% for FY26/FY27E earnings and estimate FY27E RoA/RoE at 1.1%/14.4%. We expect loans to post a 9% CAGR over FY25-27E. We reiterate our Neutral rating on the stock with a revised TP of INR155 (0.9x FY27E ABV).

Highlights from the management commentary

Opening Remarks

- Global situation is volatile, but the domestic activity continues to be healthy.
- Credit cost stood at 22bp; it was 109bp in 2QFY25.
- Recoveries in 1H surpassed slippages.
- NIMs stood at 2.67%, while other income was robust.
- The bank has curtailed high-cost bulk deposits, which has provided solid support to margins.
- The bank reduced bulk deposits but retail + CASA growth remains healthy.
- The bank aims to grow the RAM segment to 58% from the current level of 55%.

Advances & deposits related

- The growth has been muted, and the bank has played on the cost.
- The bank has been looking to increase the retail CASA rather than bulk deposits. It aims for CD ratio of 78-80%.
- It is cautious about NIMs and aims for 9-10% growth.
- It will be looking at system-level loan growth and aims to grow better than the system QoQ. It has already discussed the root cause of reason on the slower deposits growth.
- The bank will be focusing on the RAM segment with the goal of bringing it to 58%.
- The bank is already working on new products to focus on loan growth.

Yields, cost, and margins

- The sequential decline in NIMs has been coming down, and stabilization is expected from 3Q onwards, along with an improving trend from 4Q.
- The bank has reduced 21.85% of bulk deposits, and this has been replaced by CASA and retail deposits.
- An interest reversal of INR4–5b occurs each quarter as part of the regular process, with no one-offs involved.

Other income and opex

- The bank did not undertake any PSLC sales this quarter as it continues to meet PSL targets internally.
- PSLC sales may resume by 4QFY26 or early FY27, at a similar quantum to FY25.
- The treasury depends on the rate outlook going ahead.
- Investment depreciation was mainly from the trading book.
- The duration of the HTM book declined, primarily due to the sale of shares in one stock and subsequent redemption.
- Opex growth has been in line with the trend, and expenses in 2HFY25 were slightly higher. However, this has now been largely in track with opex growth.

Asset quality

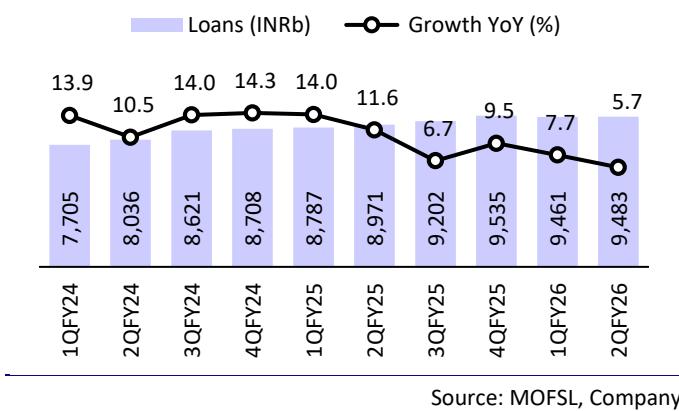

- There is INR1.33b of standard asset provision, and the bank has also taken higher standard provisions of INR8.82b amid ECL migration as well as accelerated provision in some accounts.
- One account amounting to INR6b was upgraded during the quarter, with corresponding provisions made accordingly.
- The bank has made a standard asset provision amid regulatory requirement or as a prudent measure. SMA-0 is not a matter of concern and remains under control.
- RWA is rising mainly due to a rise in the credit risk weight.

Miscellaneous

- The bank submits ECL reports to the RBI every six months. Under the new framework, the credit cost trajectory would have been largely similar.

Valuation and view: Reiterate Neutral with a TP of INR155

- UNBK reported an earnings beat, led by healthy other income, lower tax rate, and lower provisions. However, business growth remained tepid, with muted QoQ trends in both advances and deposits growth, while CASA growth stood flat.
- NIMs stood broadly in line with our expectations, as management has recently prioritized margins over growth, leading to a reduction in bulk deposits during 1HFY26.
- With business growth remaining sub-par for the past two quarters, the bank aims for recovery in momentum. Asset quality ratios continue to improve, led by controlled slippages and in-line provisions.
- We increase our earnings estimate slightly by 3% / 2.5% for FY26/FY27E earnings and estimate FY27E RoA/RoE at 1.1%/14.4%. We expect loans to post a 9% CAGR over FY25-27E. We reiterate our Neutral rating on the stock with a revised TP of INR155 (0.9x FY27E ABV).
